the kelowna story is a comprehensive full length history of the largest metropolitan centre outside bc s lower mainland a labour of love by a leading local historian whose family roots have been entwined with kelowna s for five generations it embraces the full sweep of central okanagan history starting with the days of the s ookanhkchinx who enjoyed a largely peaceful existence along the shores of the lakes and rivers before the earliest explorers came to trade followed by father pandosy and his okanagan mission in 1859 it was the mission that attracted kelowna s first homesteaders soon followed by cattle ranchers and orchardists and much later by the empire builders like the bennett family who paved the way for today s budding metropolis author sharron j simpson believes history is best told through the stories of ordinary people while allowing today s readers may not think it ordinary to walk over mountain ranges to collect mail or consider it ordinary to climb into a narrow irrigation pipe to scrape the rust off the inside as it runs up and down the hillsides or to row freight from one end of okanagan lake to the other in their time she writes those who did extraordinary things were simply doing what needed to be done to get ahead their stories are fascinating and tell of the remarkable investment early settlers made in this community simpson tells the story of her hometown with an attention to detail and a passion for narrative that bespeaks her own considerable talent and deep commitment this excellent history has been a long time coming but all will agree well worth waiting for investing in place is about creating the foundations for renewing northern british columbia s rural and small town economies markey halseth and manson argue that renewal is not about nostalgic reliance on the policies and economic strategies of the past rather it is about building a pragmatic and innovative vision for development one that acknowledges both the opportunities and the challenges posed by resource development and global and technological change the path to renewal lies in place based development in people working together at all levels of the community and region to take advantage of local opportunities in a sustainable responsible way people with disabilities in canada experience and inhabit a system of deep structural economic social political legal and cultural inequality a regime of dis citizenship despite the widespread belief that canada is a country of liberty equality and inclusion many persons with disabilities experience social exclusion and marginalization they are socially constructed as second class citizens critical disability theory inquires into the possibilities and parameters of a critical theory of disability its essays argue that accommodating equality for the disabled is not fundamentally a question of medicine or health nor is it just an issue of sensitivity or compassion rather it is a question of politics of power and powerlessness conventional understandings of disability are dependent upon assumptions that characterize disability as misfortune and by implication privilege the normal over the abnormal consequently it is presumed that societal organization based upon able bodied and minded norms is inevitable and the best we can do is show sympathy or pity this book argues that we need new ways to think about the nature of disability a new understanding of participatory citizenship that encompasses the disabled new policies to respond to their needs and a new vision of their entitlements twenty four scholars from a variety of disciplines come together here to identify the problems with traditional approaches to disability and to provide new directions the essays range from focused empirical and experiential studies of different disabilities to policy analyses legal interrogations and philosophical reconsiderations the result will be of interest to policy makers professionals academics non governmental organizations and grass roots activists
