in the midst of spiraling ecological devastation multispecies feminist theorist donna j haraway offers provocative new ways to reconfigure our relations to the earth and all its inhabitants she eschews referring to our current epoch as the anthropocene preferring to conceptualize it as what she calls the chthulucene as it more aptly and fully describes our epoch as one in which the human and nonhuman are inextricably linked in tentacular practices the chthulucene haraway explains requires sym poiesis or making with rather than auto poiesis or self making learning to stay with the trouble of living and dying together on a damaged earth will prove more conducive to the kind of thinking that would provide the means to building more livable futures theoretically and methodologically driven by the signifier sf string figures science fact science fiction speculative feminism speculative fabulation so far staying with the trouble further cements haraway s reputation as one of the most daring and original thinkers of our time what are the most popular names of the ambo people in namibia why do so many ambos have finnish first names what do the african names of these people mean why is the namesake so important in ambo culture how did the nation s long struggle for independence affect personal naming and what are the latest name giving trends in namibia this study analyses the changes in the personal naming system of the ambo people in namibia over the past 120 years starting with 1883 when the first ambos received biblical and european names on baptism the central factors in this process were the german and south african colonisation and european missionary work on the one hand and the rise of african nationalism on the other eventually this clash between african and european naming practices led to a new dynamic naming system which includes elements of both african and european origin within the field of onomastics i e the scientific study of names this study is a remarkable and extremely important one i suspect that it will become a major and standard reference work in the future not only regarding ambo anthroponymy but anthroponymy in general particularly where cultures interact professor s j neethling university of the western cape south africa in 2002 lippincott published the manual of breast diseases edited by professor ismail jatoi the current book management of breast diseases is an adaptation of that manual with professor manfred kaufmann of the goethe university of frankfurt serving as co editor most of the chapters from the original manual have been either extensively revised or discarded and several new chapters added this text contains more material than the original manual but it is still intended as a basic guide for the wide spectrum of clinicians surgeons gynecologists oncologists radiation oncologists internists general practitioners who treat breast diseases both benign and malignant to compile this text we assembled experts from throughout the world thus this text provides not only a broad overview of breast diseases but also highlights different perspectives from different parts of the world yet it is worth noting that the management of breast cancer is now largely predicated on evidence based medicine several large randomized prospective trials have demonstrated the efficacy of breast cancer screening and chemoprevention other large trials have addressed the impact of systemic therapy radiotherapy and variations in local therapy on breast cancer mortality many of these landmark trials are discussed in this text and they clearly have had a beneficial effect indeed since about 1990 breast cancer mortality rates have declined substantially in most industrialized countries and this trend is expected to continue in the years ahead in the last decade the incidence of acute poisoning in the developed world has risen considerably so that hospital admissions from this cause now represent a significant part of the work load of most medical units the purpose of this book is to provide an up to date account of the diagnosis and treatment of all the clinically important poisons throughout the text the aim has been to emphasize the mechanisms of toxicity wherever they are known so that a rational approach to therapy may be devised in addition substantial chapters have been devoted to the psychiatric assessment of self poisoned patients and to the role of the laboratory two styles of presentation have been adopted certain topics are discussed in depth either because of their clinical importance or because recent data have become available concerning pathophysiology or treatment in contrast when subjects have been well described previously in general medical texts for example carbon monoxide poisoning the discussion is far more brief and to the point a similar style has been adopted with recently introduced drugs where little is known about the effects in overdose the value of certain chapters especially those on poisonous plants and snake bites has been enhanced by the inclusion of a large number of colour photographs
